"This production is the most entertaining and funny history lesson you could hope to see, given a captivating performance by the charismatic Pirovano."
David Chadderton * British Theatre Guide

"Pirovano's performance, and his ability, are astounding... I recommend it whole-heartedly and completely."
Chris Hislop * Fringe Review

"... this wonderful show performed with exquisite timing and exuberance... worth seeing and even giving it a second visit."
Neil Mc Ewans * Evening news

"Deeply entertaining theatrical experience. One not to be missed."
Chris Wright * Three Weeks

The play is funny, uplifting and thought-provoking.

This is an entirely unique and living piece of theatre that interrogates and celebrates our humanity, has the power to reach all of us, theatre-lover or no, educated or non-educated, Christian or non-Christian. It will be of interest to historians, theologians, students and teachers of drama, those with a particular interest in the work of Dario Fo or with a general interest in Italian culture and literature, and to anyone who enjoys a good story lovingly crafted and expertly told with insight, vivacity and humour.

Mario Pirovano is an Italian theatrical actor, storyteller, translator and interpreter of Dario Fo's monologues. His performances contribute to spread the Fo's art in the world.
